For over forty years Deflect-o Corporation has been a leading manufacturer and distributor in a number of important markets. The inventor of the heat register air deflector, Deflect-o Corporation has branched out to become the supplier of choice in the air distribution, dryer venting, office products, and literature display industries.

The original commitment to innovation, quality and service are still evident throughout the company. Our customers have consistently ranked us as the supplier of choice for the many products we manufacture. The emphasis on quality borders on obsession and we are continually striving to bring out new and innovative products. Our dozens of patents are evidence of our commitment.
